Form Alliance to Prevent Austria Joining Germany

VIENNA, April 19.—The Slovene Narodni of Ljubljana says that a treaty has been concluded among France, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia under which the pledge is made for common offensive and defensive action in the event the proposal for Austrian fusion with Germany reaches proportions threatening realization. The treaty has not yet been signed.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 19.—It is now settled that there will be another conference at Hythe, near Portsmouth, this week-end to discuss German reparations questions. Lloyd George will be accompanied by Lord Curzon and General Sir Henry Wilson and possibly Austen Chamberlain. The French party, headed by Premier Briand, will arrive in England Saturday.

The conference, which in London official circles is described as informal, will turn on the amount and quality of the support which Great Britain will be prepared to accord to the French in taking measures to obtain payment of the indemnity due by the terms of the Versailles Treaty on May 1.

Though new proposals are expected from Germany within the next two days, official quarters here have no definite information upon which to believe that Berlin's offer when it is made will differ very materially from that put forward by Dr. Brüning at St. James's Palace in March.

The view in official quarters is that opinion here is hardening against Germany. A statement issued from an official source today was to the following effect:

"It is felt that the British Government has been patient almost to a fault in the belief that this patience is gradually being won by the German Government."

"It is the same old Germany with which we have to deal, and a highly placed official here seems to feel that little while after the armistice to be hoped for better things, but that glimmer has gone out and we are faced with a Government and a people very little different from all those of 1918."

"The German Government has been too long in making good its promise of a guarantee for the execution of the obligations of the German Government with regard to reparations. It has decided to ask the German Government to transfer immediately and before May 1 to the branches of the Reichsbank at Cologne or Coblenz the total of the metal reserve of the Reichsbank."

"This reserve may continue to figure as a credit of the Reichsbank, but the German Government may not dispose of any part of this reserve without prior approval of the Commission on Reparations."

"In case the German Government refuses to satisfy this demand, the Commission on Reparations will see itself obliged to exact of the said Government the total of the metal reserve of the Reichsbank."

"It is in order to avoid, if possible, the consequences that such surrender may have eventually for the Commission on Reparations has decided simply to demand transfer to the branches of the Reichsbank at Cologne or Coblenz of the metal reserve in question."

"The Commission on Reparations will be in a position to demand the transfer of the metal reserve in question."

NEW PROPOSALS BY OWNERS

They Offer National Wages and Surplus Revenue to Meet
"Abnormal" Conditions.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 19.—The developments of last week which led to the sensational arrest of the threatened general strike followed so fast upon one another that at the time it was difficult to obtain a clear idea of what was going on, and since then it has been possible to set the jigsaw puzzle into some sort of shape. On Thursday afternoon the mine owners suggested to some members of Parliament that they would like to present their case. A meeting of members of Parliament was called in a committee room of the House of Commons, and Evan Williams, Chairman of the Mining Association, and Lord Gainsford made addresses.

The M. P.'s put questions in regard to various points in the proposed wage cuts. They were astonished to find how drastic these cuts were in certain cases, but when the proposal was before them they would get only 1 shilling an hour, street scavengers were earning 1 shilling and 1 penny.

Captain Elliott proposed, after the mine owners had taken their deplorable part in the matter, that a motion be moved that Mr. Hodges be asked to address the meeting that night. Mr. Hodges was at the moment engaged at a conference of labor organizations in another committee room, and he lasted only 8 o'clock, but when the proposal was before him he agreed to meet the M. P.'s at 9:30 that evening.

Hodges Before the M. P.'s.

Mr. Hodges came, spoke for three-quarters of an hour and then passed the best part of another hour in answering questions. The atmosphere in which he was received was decidedly favorable to that of the Downing Street conference. The Government had strongly emphasized its opposition to a national profits pool and had through-out the night been regarded as a tenacious defender of the pool. The miners' demand for a pool was a well-known fact, and the miners' leaders had been full of follow suit or abandon one of the main planks in their program.

When asked, however, if the miners could not agree to an immediate cessation of hostilities, while leaving the national pool question for future discussion without prejudice, Mr. Hodges made the fateful declaration that the miners were prepared to consider a settlement dealing with wages alone, provided it was regarded as a temporary expedient and did not prejudice the consideration later of their claim for a national settlement and a national wage pool. As is known, the miners' executive next day repudiated this suggestion, but only by a narrow majority of one.

Originally Mr. Hodges intended to present a motion for a national settlement, but he was persuaded by the M. P.'s to accept the offer of a national settlement and a national wage pool.

Mr. Hodges' declaration was, however, important enough to justify its presentation by the M. P.'s. A committee was hastily chosen to go over the Downing Street and the M. P.'s' proposals, and at this time midnight, and Mr. Lloyd George had gone to bed. He

Rods to Sell Abroad for Food Art Treasures They Seized

HELSINGFORS, April 19.—Soviet Russian officials are putting into effect a decree proposing that the Russian art treasures seized from palaces and from private individuals and sold abroad to buy food. The decree provides for the creation of a "State fund of valuables and art luxuries," to be controlled by a committee of educators.

Many of the most famous paintings, statues and objects of art in the world will thus be thrown on the market when the plan is in operation.

For many months these treasures have been collected and stored in houses at Petrograd and Moscow, where they have been catalogued by experts.

Speech to All Americas

WASHINGTON'S VIEW OF HARDING SPEECH

It is Interpreted as Plea for Greater Co-operation Between North and Latin America.

FOR ARMAMENT REDUCTION

Bolivar Address in Line With President's Talk to Congress—No Doubt on Monroe Doctrine.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—President Harding's speech at the unveiling of the Bolivar statue in New York is interpreted here by the few who have had the opportunity of reading it as a plea for a greater degree of North American and Latin American co-operation to help combat the forces of disorder and suffering from devastations of war.

It is believed here that on the whole the President's remarks will bring a cordial sympathetic response from Latin America. As for the Monroe Doctrine, which has been the subject of criticism in the United States would never force it to do so would involve us in actual hostilities.

"The history of the last decade," said the President, "certainly must have convinced all the world that we stand willing to fight, if necessary, to protect these continents, these sturdy young democracies, from oppression and tyranny."

The assurance given by the President that in his dealings with the Latin American countries the United States is able to say that "no selfishness impedes, no greed is urging, no envy incites, no hatred is actuating," is also bound to be pleasing to Latin America. It is believed here. This statement is in line with the action of the President in urging the Senate to ratify the Colombian treaty on the ground that it will make for better relations between that country and the United States.

In a broader sense the address attracts attention here because of the suggestion of a new era of peace and problems. In his references to international peace and economic reconstruction the President was not as explicit as in his address before Congress a week ago, but he showed that there was no error in supposing that his international policy contemplated a closer relationship between the United States and Europe.

In the judgment of problems growing out of the war. He declared that we "are now so interlocked with the old world that we cannot separate ourselves. To this he added: 'Where there is a common interest, there is a common responsibility, and the endurance of our institutions is not a matter of indifference to the world.'"

This is directly in line with the assurance of the President in his address to Congress that the United States would seek to help Europe in its present economic demoralization through an active participation in the reconstruction of the world. He said that the means of carrying out the terms of the treaty "will be determined by the President and the Senate."

He was deeply in earnest when he indicated the United States would be ready to do something to bring about a world agreement toward a real peace. He said that the United States "purpose to invite the present-day civilization to stand the stage of its development and to take the lead in the organization of an association of nations."

He referred to, but the President added that his idea contemplated a non-political, non-military organization, one that would be a realization of interdependence and conception of something like a world government.

We need to develop the great producing and commercial possibilities of the world. We need to develop the great producing and commercial possibilities of the world. We need to develop the great producing and commercial possibilities of the world.

By accomplishing these things we shall mighty strengthen ourselves to carry forward our task of today—aye, our tasks of all the tomorrows.

SOVIET NOW FEELS AMERICAN PRISONERS

Package Distribution Resumed. Captives Say, After Interval of Some Weeks.

RIGA, Latvia, April 19 (Associated Press).—Although Baroness Forster, who arrived at her home in Riga recently, after having been for a long time in prison in Russia, asserts that before the Russian Revolution the American prisoners were being treated with respect, both food and clothing packages constantly are being forwarded to Moscow. Received as late as March 6 have been received for some of these packages through the organizations which handle the prisoners.

According to a letter received here from some of the American prisoners, there was a distribution of some weeks ago, in which the distribution of packages was resumed. The work is being carried out by various organizations, including the famous Kopecksky Squadron, who was captured during the Russian Revolution.

Speech to All Americas

It is Interpreted as Plea for Greater Co-operation Between North and Latin America.

FOR ARMAMENT REDUCTION

Bolivar Address in Line With President's Talk to Congress—No Doubt on Monroe Doctrine.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—President Harding's speech at the unveiling of the Bolivar statue in New York is interpreted here by the few who have had the opportunity of reading it as a plea for a greater degree of North American and Latin American co-operation to help combat the forces of disorder and suffering from devastations of war.

It is believed here that on the whole the President's remarks will bring a cordial sympathetic response from Latin America. As for the Monroe Doctrine, which has been the subject of criticism in the United States would never force it to do so would involve us in actual hostilities.

"The history of the last decade," said the President, "certainly must have convinced all the world that we stand willing to fight, if necessary, to protect these continents, these sturdy young democracies, from oppression and tyranny."

The assurance given by the President that in his dealings with the Latin American countries the United States is able to say that "no selfishness impedes, no greed is urging, no envy incites, no hatred is actuating," is also bound to be pleasing to Latin America. It is believed here. This statement is in line with the action of the President in urging the Senate to ratify the Colombian treaty on the ground that it will make for better relations between that country and the United States.

In a broader sense the address attracts attention here because of the suggestion of a new era of peace and problems. In his references to international peace and economic reconstruction the President was not as explicit as in his address before Congress a week ago, but he showed that there was no error in supposing that his international policy contemplated a closer relationship between the United States and Europe.

In the judgment of problems growing out of the war. He declared that we "are now so interlocked with the old world that we cannot separate ourselves. To this he added: 'Where there is a common interest, there is a common responsibility, and the endurance of our institutions is not a matter of indifference to the world.'"

This is directly in line with the assurance of the President in his address to Congress that the United States would seek to help Europe in its present economic demoralization through an active participation in the reconstruction of the world. He said that the means of carrying out the terms of the treaty "will be determined by the President and the Senate."

He was deeply in earnest when he indicated the United States would be ready to do something to bring about a world agreement toward a real peace. He said that the United States "purpose to invite the present-day civilization to stand the stage of its development and to take the lead in the organization of an association of nations."

He referred to, but the President added that his idea contemplated a non-political, non-military organization, one that would be a realization of interdependence and conception of something like a world government.

We need to develop the great producing and commercial possibilities of the world. We need to develop the great producing and commercial possibilities of the world. We need to develop the great producing and commercial possibilities of the world.

By accomplishing these things we shall mighty strengthen ourselves to carry forward our task of today—aye, our tasks of all the tomorrows.

SOVIET NOW FEELS AMERICAN PRISONERS

Package Distribution Resumed. Captives Say, After Interval of Some Weeks.

RIGA, Latvia, April 19 (Associated Press).—Although Baroness Forster, who arrived at her home in Riga recently, after having been for a long time in prison in Russia, asserts that before the Russian Revolution the American prisoners were being treated with respect, both food and clothing packages constantly are being forwarded to Moscow. Received as late as March 6 have been received for some of these packages through the organizations which handle the prisoners.

According to a letter received here from some of the American prisoners, there was a distribution of some weeks ago, in which the distribution of packages was resumed. The work is being carried out by various organizations, including the famous Kopecksky Squadron, who was captured during the Russian Revolution.

REA DEFENDS POLICY ON OUTSIDE REPAIRS

Contents Pennsylvania's Need of Speed on Work Justified the Price Paid.

ADMITS NO BIDS ARE ASKED

Federal Examiner Says Excess of $2,173,000 Was Paid Baldwin's for 200 Locomotives.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—Samuel Rea, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, defended today the road's action in sending 200 locomotives to the Baldwin Locomotive Works for repairs last year, maintaining that even if the cost were greater than in the road's own shops, speed in completing the work was essential and the price paid was not wasteful.

Mr. Rea appeared as a witness at the hearing instituted by the Interstate Commerce Commission to determine whether the work done at outside shops should have been done for less in the railroad's own repair plants. At the conclusion of today's session the hearing was adjourned until May 7 at Washington.

Mr. Rea said there had been no discussions regarding competitive bids. Rapid work on repairs was necessary, he declared, because of indications of a heavy business, and such indications showed last October was the heaviest month in the Pennsylvania's history. The railroad President denied he personally had anything to do with the Baldwin contract or that he had any conversation with Samuel Vauclain, President of the Baldwin company, concerning it prior to the time it was let, on March 10, 1920. The situation had been discussed informally by the company's Directors, he said, and at the meeting at which the matter was passed upon it was thoroughly explained to the Directors that in the opinion of the management it should be given to Baldwin.

The only conversations he had with officials of the road prior to the letting of the contract, he said, were informal discussions with W. W. Atterbury, Vice President of the road, and J. T. Wallis, general superintendent of motive power. Mr. Rea declared that he relied entirely upon the reports of these officers. The matter, he said, "might have been spoken of at meetings of the Association of Railway Executives, although he could not recall this definitely."

Mr. Rea was questioned by Mr. Walsh concerning a statement which he issued to Philadelphia newspapers on April 17 in reply to William H. Johnston, International President of the Machinists Union. In this statement Mr. Rea quoted Mr. Johnston as having said that the Pennsylvania had spent $3,500,000 more to have the 200 locomotives repaired by the Baldwin than it could have made the repairs for itself.

P. G. Blecke, an examiner of accounts for the Interstate Commerce Commission, testified at the morning session that the repairs on the 200 locomotives had cost $2,173,082 more than it had been done in the road's shops. The average cost, he said, was $6,634 while the Baldwin charged an average of $23,047 each.

Testimony that locomotives needing slight repairs were let for heavy repairs was given by Harvey Boltwood, chief mechanical engineer, department of railroad equipment, United States Railroad Administration.

At the close of the hearing, Mr. Walsh made a 12-page report filed with figures, charts and supporting affidavits. It contended there was no economic need for having the 200 locomotives repaired by the Baldwin, and that as fast as the men were dropped by the Pennsylvania, many of them were hired by Baldwin's for work on the railroad's property.

WESTERN ROADS GIVE FIGURES.

Contend They Pay More for Unskilled Labor Than Other Industries.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Railroad witnesses before the Railroad Labor Board today declared that the roads are discriminated against and robbed of their freedom in having to pay higher wages for unskilled labor than are paid in other industries. The railroad testimony came in the form of a presentation of their evidence in the consolidated hearing into the request of ninety-three roads for lower wages.

B. J. Worthington, President of the Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Western, declared that the roads were "facing a great emergency" and that unless his road received aid within two or three months it would go into the hands of a receiver. Ralph M. Shaw, counsel for the Chicago Great Western, which recently proposed a 20 per cent. reduction for skilled labor and the placing of unskilled labor on a wage with similar workers in other industries, declared that the roads were now forced to pay their unskilled employees 24 per cent. higher wages than were paid in other industries.

St. A. Sargent, counsel for the Chicago & Northwestern, was the next witness. Some of Mr. Sargent's exhibits gave figures estimating that if the same wages and freight rates and the same labor costs applied for the entire year to the total income of business in 1920 the road would have fallen short by $19,297,102 from earning 8 per cent. on the value of the property.

The Northwestern presentation was concurred in by the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Union Pacific, all of which operate in the same territory.

REJECTS RAIL PLEA TO REDUCE SERVICE

Second District Commission Bars Erie's Application to Close Stations Near Buffalo.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 19.—The Public Service Commission, Second District, cannot subscribe to any proposition by the railroad within the State that their situation can be improved by "improving their service to a point below the statute require." This announcement was made today in connection with the denial of an application by the Erie Railroad for permission to discontinue the services of agents at several small stations south of Buffalo.

The railroad, while claiming that the earnings at these points do not justify their continuance as agency stations, admitted that the proposed reduction was a cut in the service below what is a "good service."

The application of the Erie, said Chairman Hill in a memorandum, is typical of a large volume of similar applications made generally by the railroads in an effort to improve their financial conditions. "It seems to the commission, however," he continued, "that an improvement of the ordinary service of the company to the extent here proposed is a device pregnant with most grave and serious results. It is difficult to see how any ultimate good can inure to the benefit of the customer or the properties by a deletion of the service to a point where it is unjust, unreasonable and inadequate."

The commission also pointed out that when a public utility does not give just and reasonable service it forfeits its right to protection and lays itself open to any competitor who sees fit to enter the field.

The Erie Railroad. The report said that this company received the Erie's harbor work.

The report charged that the R. B. Owens Construction Company, maintaining tracks between Hornell, N. Y., and Jersey City, "took over an office force which consisted of all the officers and clerks of the Erie had on the same work. They added 10 per cent. to the payroll as overhead expense and Mr. G. B. Owens is reported to have cleaned up $12,000 a month for a period of one year. When there appeared to be probability of an investigation the contract was abolished."

SABIN CALLS CHARGES FALSE.

Declares That Capital, Instead of Plotting Depression, Has Fought It.

Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, commenting on the statement made before the United States Labor Board yesterday by W. Jett Lauck, economist for the railroad unions, said:

"So far as the Guaranty Trust Company is concerned the statement reported to have been made by W. Jett Lauck in Chicago before the Railroad Labor Board is regarded as a gross and combination of New York banks to defile labor is absolutely and unqualifiedly false in every respect. The company has never been a party, either formally or informally, to any such understanding, agreement or combination and, furthermore, neither I nor any of my associates ever heard of such an alleged combination or any discussion or proposition relating to it. Mr. Lauck's statement that New York banks have combined to cause the spread of unemployment is also utterly false."

The popular recourse of the demagogue and the agitator in attempting to plead his cause is almost invariably to attempt to set up a mythical 'Wall Street' opposition, and this seems to be just another kind of that kind of utterly unwarranted appeal to popular prejudice and ignorance. The alleged statement is not only untrue, but most unfair. No institutions or organizations in the country have struggled harder against difficulties to preserve the financial, industrial and commercial stability of the country through this period of worldwide reaction and economic readjustment than the banking institutions of New York in their individual capacities.

"Even a most casual survey of the facts would show that the banks of the country have extended their credit record to the utmost limit of safety in financing industry and commerce, sustaining business and the employment of labor as far as lay within their power."

WOMEN RAIL WORKERS STAY

87,457 Employed Last Year, Only 151 Fewer Than in 1919.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Women employed by the railroads in 1920 numbered 87,457, or 151 fewer than in 1919 and nearly 10,000 more than in 1918, says a report issued today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Most of them were in clerical and semi-clerical positions, but 1,953 were doing shop work last year.

The commission says it is "interesting to note that in 1919, after the return to civil life of the majority of women who had been in the military service, the average number of women in railway service was greater than before."

SENATE ORDERS INQUIRY.

Cummins Plans Start About May 1 With Executives as Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—A general investigation of the railroad situation was ordered today by the Senate. A resolution offered by Chairman Cummins of the Interstate Commerce Committee was adopted without debate or division. Senator Cummins plans to begin the inquiry about May 1 with railroad executives as the first witnesses. His committee is authorized by the resolution to investigate railroad maintenance costs, efficiency of operation, reduction of traffic and the best way to effect reduction of freight and passenger rates.

STOKES UNWELCOME TO MOTHER-IN-LAW

Mrs. Miller Testifies That She Was Prostrated by News of the Marriage.

WITNESSES LIED, SHE SAYS

Denies That She Ever Went to Wallace Apartments With Her Daughter.

Mrs. Emma Miller of Denver, mother of Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes, was one of the witnesses yesterday for her daughter in the divorce case on trial before Supreme Court Justice Finch, and testified that when she was notified in 1911 of her daughter's marriage to Stokes she was prostrated. She had seen a picture of himself sent by Stokes to George Estabrook, an old friend in Denver, who showed it to Mrs. Miller. She said Estabrook told her Stokes sent the picture because he heard his mother-in-law was ill in bed over her daughter's marriage and wanted her to know "who her venerable son-in-law was."

Further testimony concerning the conversation with Estabrook, who died two years ago, was ruled out on the objection of the Stokes attorneys. Mrs. Miller also testified that she had been told by numerous persons of statements made to them by a negro named Harrison reflecting on her daughter, but she was not allowed to give details.

Justice Finch also ruled out for the present letters produced by Martin W. Littleton for Mrs. Stokes that had been written by Stokes to a negro detective in Chicago concerning his wife. "They may be marked for identification, and I will entertain a motion for their admission later, if they are called for by the evidence," said the Court.

Mr. Littleton remarked that he would be able to show that the letters had been circulated in Denver by a detective employed by Stokes. He said they were part of the campaign of cruelty conducted by Stokes against his wife and consisted of "wholesale" statements attacking her chastity.

Mrs. Miller then continued her testimony and denied that she ever went to the Wallace apartment at 13 East Thirty-fifth Street with Mrs. Stokes. "I was with my daughter when her second baby was born on Dec. 29, 1915, less than two weeks before that date," said Mrs. Miller. "I heard a nurse go on the stand and say that Mrs. Stokes got up within ten days after the baby was born. It is an infamous lie, just as infamous as that we measure would not apply to immigration from countries with which the United States has treaty agreements, such as Japan, China and the South American republics.

Chairman Johnson estimated that the number of aliens who could be admitted annually under the proposed law was 35,441, more than half of whom would come from Northwestern Europe. Immigrants from that section are considered by members of Congress as the more desirable class.

Segel Takes Exception.
Exception to certain statements in the report of Secretary Hughes to Congress was taken tonight by Representative Segel, Republican, New York, in a statement. Mr. Segel, Representative Maloney, Republican, Massachusetts, and Sabath, Democrat, Illinois, also filed a minority report opposing restrictive legislation at this time and asserting that "the wisest policy for Congress to follow is to deliberate first and to legislate afterward."

The statement by Mr. Segel said in part: "It is exceedingly regrettable that a report purporting to be signed by Secretary Hughes should have been issued from the Department of State wherein the statement is made that 'Armenians, Jews, Persians and Russians, all of which have been so driven hither and thither since 1914 that they cannot be regarded as desirable populations for any country,' should have been given wide publicity. 'The letter containing this memorandum is alleged to have had his signature thereon.' Undoubtedly, Secretary Hughes will promptly take steps to ascertain who is responsible for the issuance of the state-went to the Wallace apartment. Mrs. Stokes could not leave her room at the Hotel Vanderbilt for at least six weeks. We then drove with the nurse and the children to the Hotel Nassau at Long Beach."

Robert A. Cowan, a Brooklyn photographer, was questioned by Mr. Littleton as to tests he made in the East Thirty-fifth Street house to see whether any person could have been in the room last night in a motor car. Two men jumped on the running board. The escorts were expelled and the car, with the girls, drove away in the car. The girls were Mildred Harding, 18 years old, and Margaret Hobbs, 17. Edward Myers and George Brown were their escorts. The men told the police they called for the girls at their home, drove downtown and then suggested a drive to the outskirts of the city. They said they were robbed of their overalls. Myers said he lost $12 in money.

Martin H. Teidelbaum, 17 months old, whose parents live at 18 West 10th Street, was crushed to death in an elevator there yesterday. Mrs. Reginald Teidelbaum, the mother, who lives on the fifth floor, was on her way to her apartment after a walk in Central Park with the child, when the accident happened. When the elevator stopped at the fifth floor she got out and started to draw out the carriage in which the child was. The car shot upward and the carriage was caught between it and the wall. The child's death was instantaneous.

ment, which the entire world knows is false and untrue."

Insist Bill Is Unjust.
The minority report said the signers were in favor of the admission of "only those who are mentally, morally and physically fit, and who are coming here for the purpose of becoming real American citizens in the fullest sense of the term," but contended that the proposed bill would retard the reunion of families who have been separated since the war, close the doors of America as an asylum for religious and political refugees and would "create the most terrible hardships in the United States among those who are here."

The report said no hearing of any kind had been given "upon this particular measure by the committee," and that the bill was unjust in that the 1910 census is adopted as the basis of calculation instead of the 1920 census. "If needed appropriations had been made," it concluded, "and the present law properly enforced, even the professional restrictionists would have been unable to find cause for complaint."

Imported Dress Cottons

EVERY DAY fresh importations of delightful Cotton Fabrics are arriving and each new shipment boasts patterns entirely original and different. The colors are lovely, running through the whole color scale from soft Platinum to equally smart Red.

Prints as Precise as England's Hedgerows

They are very prim and very precise, these new "English Prints." Some of them are checkered, some are polka-dotted and some find tiny geometric designs quite interesting; others demurely flaunt rather proper roses or even whole nosegays. To children's and women's frocks these Prints lend a charm and crispness all their own. They are also used most effectively as summer hangings.

"Tropical Prints" are Cool as a Leaf

They might have floated right out of Thackeray's "Vanity Fair"—they are so quaint. But their very quaintness is their smartness, and their crepe-like sheerness—a summer delight.

French and English Satens

The dull silky finish of these Satens and their picturesque patterns have won them a most enviable position among fashionable fabrics. They are extremely practical as they launder beautifully and do not wrinkle.

FIRST STEPS TAKEN ON IRISH HOME RULE

Government Begins to Carry Out the New Law in Face of Bitter Criticism.

PREMIER DEFENDS POLICY

Answers Pretexts of Clergymen, Saying Government Will Never Accept "Secession."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 19.—"Today is the day for inaugurating the machinery of the Irish Government Act, and inaugurated it is to be," says the Westminster Gazette, "yet so far as South Ireland is concerned, there is not a human being with knowledge of the country who has not told the Government that the process is entirely futile for any object it can have in view, in other respects positively harmful to the Sinn Féin. It will enable David Lloyd George to make good his numbers depleted by the imprisonment of its members, and it will afford a great demonstration of the solidarity of South Ireland against the Government's scheme, but it will do nothing else."

"Yet, the machinery having been started, it has to spin on to the end, and the Government, having committed itself to the prediction that the month of May would witness the pacification of Ireland and the peaceable assembly of two loyal Parliaments, has to exhaust this thesis before it can do anything else."

LONDON, April 19 (Associated Press).—Steps to bring into operation the Irish act, providing for home rule in the island, were taken today by the British Government. This law, which was described by King George V. as "the fruit of thirty years of ceaseless controversy," was passed by Parliament on Dec. 21 last, and received royal assent a short time later. Sinn Féin leaders in Ireland have been outspoken in their opposition to the measure.

Election of members of the Northern and Southern Irish Parliaments will be held on May 3, under present plans. Sheriff will be directed to proceed with the preliminary steps of the elections, but it seemed probable the southern section of Ireland would ignore the provisions of the law. Ulster was understood to have made arrangements for elections, and announcement was made last month that the Ulster Parliament would open on June 21, probably under royal auspices.

The Irish act provides for selection of a Senate by the Parliament of each section. After this is done, the two houses of each Parliament will elect twenty members of the Council of Forty, which will act as the connecting link between the two legislative bodies. "This Council will, it is hoped by the sponsors of the law, provide a means for bridging the gap between the Parliaments and uniting them into one body in future."

After such union takes place certain powers relative to police, finance and other branches of the Irish Government will be conferred by the British Government.

The British Government approves fully the general policy of the Military Government in Ireland. It was declared in the House of Commons today by Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader. Asked whether a policy existed of official reprisals by the Crown forces in Ireland, Mr. Chamberlain replied: "It is within the discretion of the Military Government in the martial law area to direct the carrying out of punishment on the districts in which outrages have been committed. The imposition and collection of fines is a legitimate and recognized feature of martial law, but as far as my information goes the occasions on which such fines are imposed are very few."

"The general policy pursued by the Military Government in Ireland has the full approval of the Government."

Lloyd George Likens Ireland to South. LONDON, April 19 (Associated Press).—The Prime Minister defends the Government's policy in Ireland and cites the American Civil War as providing an exact parallel for the situation there, involving the fundamental issue of union or secession. In his reply, made today, to the recent memorial sent to him by nine Anglican bishops and the heads of the principal nonconformist churches in Great Britain.

In this memorial the signers endorsed the Archbishop of Canterbury's protest in the House of Lords against reprisals in Ireland, and pleaded for a truce. Among other things, the memorial declared that the Government's policy in Ireland exposed Great Britain to "misunderstanding and hostile criticism, even of the friendliest of the world's nations."

Mr. Lloyd George, in his letter of reply, declares: "At the outbreak of the American struggle nearly every one in these islands sympathized with the South. Even Gladstone took this view and only John Bright did not waver in his adherence to Lincoln's cause. That was lasting four years and cost a million lives and much devastation and ruin. There was more destruction of property in a single Confederate county than has been caused by all the so-called reprisals throughout Ireland."

"Lincoln rejected truce and compromise, as he often said he was fighting for the Union and meant to save it, even if he could only do so at the price of retaining slavery in the South. I think a man or woman today who does not admit that the North was right and who does not see the calamitous result which would have followed the breaking up of the American Union, I doubt if there is a responsible man in the Southern States today, however much he admires great figures like Jackson and Lee, who is not glad that the Union was preserved, even at that terrible cost."

"Is not our policy exactly the same? It is, by reason of the contiguity of the two islands and their strategic and economic interdependence, to fight secession and to maintain the fundamental unity of our ancient kingdom of many nations. I believe our ideal of combining unity with home rule is a finer and nobler ideal than excessive nationalism, which will leave no room for isolation—which is the Sinn Féin creed and which, if it had full play, would Balkanize the world. I believe that once the struggle is over, bitterness forgotten and unity preserved, all will agree that in the fundamental the Government was right and the Sinn Féin wrong."

The Prime Minister declared he does not see how he can pursue a different line, as "the directing mind of the Sinn Féin, who control the Irish Republican Army—the real obstacle to peace—believe they can ultimately win a republic by concluding to fight as they are fighting today, and are resolutely opposed to a compromise." Mr. Lloyd George continued: "As long as the Sinn Féin stand in this position and receive the support of their countrymen, the Government, in my judgment, is impossible. The Government of which I am the head will never give way upon the fundamental question of secession."

"I believe nothing would more rapidly promote peace than that the signers of the memorial, and those thinking with them, should make it clear to the Sinn Féin that the Irish can never attain their ends by a resort to crime; that secession is impossible, and that if they cannot concede to the Government the same rights they claim for themselves."

The letter declares there are no "irregular forces" in Ireland, but that the auxiliaries did not come into effective operation until more than 100 policemen and men murdered had been executed, largely because of the intimidation of witnesses. Although many of these murders were committed in the open streets in the presence of non-participating, if unprotesting, passersby.

"Can it be contended," Mr. Lloyd George asks, "that when a rebel organization sets to work to achieve its ends by deliberate and calculated murder of the members of the police force, 90 per cent. of whom were Irish and 10 per cent. of whom were Roman Catholic, that the Government was to stand idly by? It seems to me that all liberal minded and law respecting citizens are bound to support the Government. The Government must take prompt and decisive steps to protect the peace, bring to justice those who invoke the weapon of assassination. Hence, the creation of the auxiliaries."

Further, it would seem no less clear, where, owing to intimidation and murder, the ordinary judicial processes employed in a peaceful and civilized community have failed, the police, if they are to vindicate the law and bring the murderers to justice, must be armed with exceptional powers. It is to those entrusted to soldiers in the field. But that there has been any authorization or condonation of a policy of murder, murder by giving reign to unchecked violence on the other side is utterly untrue. That there have been deplorable cases, I shall not attempt to deny. Individuals, working under conditions of extraordinary personal danger and strain, where they were in uniform and their adversaries mingled unrecognizably among ordinary civilians, undoubtedly have been guilty of unjustifiable acts."

A certain number of undesirable got into the corps, and in the earlier days discipline, in the novel and exacting conditions, took some time to establish. But the Government never ceased to press upon the Irish administration and the military and police the paramount importance of the enforcement of the sternest discipline. There is no question that discipline is improving. The force is consolidating, and acts of indiscipline, despite the most strenuous and energetic measures, often designed to provoke retaliation for propaganda purposes, are becoming increasingly infrequent."

Two resolutions are emphatic when concerning the Government, and virtually in the next sentence it condones the adoption by the Sinn Féin of the weapon of wholesale murder on the ground that the end justifies the means. It seems to me this part of your memorial is a terrible blot of order, good government, morality and the Christian religion."

The Prime Minister cited recent cases of the murder of civilians in Ireland as examples of "the Sinn Féin campaign of terror," and declared: "Perhaps the most terrible aspect of the Irish situation today, is the indifference which has grown up in Ireland to the crime of murder since the Sinn Féin entered upon its campaign."

SINN FEIN BANDS ATTACKED BY TROOPS

Ten Casualties to Republicans Reported in Two Clashes With Patrols.

DUBLIN, April 19.—A fight which resulted in numerous casualties occurred last evening near Ballymurray, County Carlow, when a patrol of Crown forces surprised a party of armed civilians drilling according to an official statement today.

Five of the civilians are believed to have been killed and two wounded, while six of them were captured, together with a quantity of arms. The Crown forces, says the statement, sustained no casualties.

BELFAST, April 19.—Two armed civilians were shot dead and another was seriously wounded today when a party of Crown forces from Castlereagh, County Down, came upon them while searching the Lough Glynn wood.

CORK, April 19.—Timothy Sullivan, a prominent Sinn Féin, was shot and instantly killed by the constabulary this evening. He was called on to help in a house in Douglas Street and was shot as he was endeavoring to escape through the back of the house.

ASKS IRISH RECOGNITION.

Chicago Convention Also Wants a Treaty With Ireland.

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHICAGO, April 19.—The convention of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic recessed this afternoon to attend a mass meeting at the City Hall, where it was announced Mayor Thompson and Chief of Police Morris were to speak. A thousand delegates, cheering enthusiastically, fell into line and marched to the City Hall. Then one of the leaders went inside for the Mayor.

He could not be found. After a search, it was learned the Mayor was at the Coliseum, attending a circus party for crippled children. Chief Morris, likewise, was missing.

A hundred of the delegates swarmed in and took possession of the Aldermanic chairs. They sat and waited for developments, which did not come. Then they decided to return to their convention.

The convention ended tonight with adoption of resolutions in support of the Irish fight for independence, and Chief among these was one calling upon President Harding to acknowledge the sovereignty of Ireland.

The resolutions say the association is composed of more than 300 members, who were represented by 4,100 delegates. After urging immediate recognition of the Irish Republic, the resolutions continued: "The President is also hereby respectfully urged to notify the Government of the Irish Republic to appoint duly accredited Commissioners to negotiate with the United States such treaty or treaties as may be now in existence between the Government of the United States and the Governments of the most favored nations."

The resolutions also express "heartily sympathetic and assurances of support to the cause of Irish independence and the just national aspirations of all other peoples."

FRENCH LINE HEAD SUICIDE BY HANGING

Chief Over Recent Death of Wife Led Maurice W. Kozminski to End Life in Plaza.

USED LEASH OF A PET DOG

Director General of Company in This Country Had Been in Deep Melancholy.

Using the leash of his pet Pomeranian to form a noose, Maurice W. Kozminski, Director General of Passenger Traffic of the French Line, hanged himself yesterday from a towel hook in the bathroom of his apartment in the Hotel Plaza. Dependency over the death of his wife, who died last January after an illness of several months, was said to have been the cause.

According to friends, Mr. Kozminski had been suffering from melancholia since his wife's death and had been under the care of a nurse, Miss Josephine Ross, the nurse, left her employer on Monday night, after giving him a glass of warm milk. Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock, as was her custom, she went to his room to awaken him. There was no response to her knocking, and she called one of the assistant managers of the hotel. Mr. Kozminski's secretary arrived soon afterward, and a locksmith opened the door.

When the door of the bathroom was being opened the searching party heard an object fall and, upon entering, found the body of Mr. Kozminski on the floor. A dog's leash and a bathrobe cord had been tied around his neck, and a small stool was overturned on the floor. Dr. T. A. Gonzalez, Assistant Medical Examiner, expressed belief that Mr. Kozminski had hung himself on the towel hook behind the door, and that the body was dislodged when the door was opened.

Mr. Kozminski was fifty-seven years old, the son of a Chicago banker, who was the agent of the French Line in that city for many years. He succeeded his father, both in the banking business and as agent for the line, and was called here in 1916, where, Mr. Paul Paguet, who had been head of the passenger department for many years, retired and returned to France. The father was said to have left a fortune of $2,000,000, one-third of which went to the son.

Mr. Kozminski came here with the title of Director General of Passenger Traffic. He was made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by the French Government early in the war. Mr. Kozminski was known as a Colonel among his associates in the shipping business because he had once held that rank as a member of the staff of a Governor of Illinois.

Great regret was expressed at the office of the French Line, 19 State Street. Mr. Arthur Henderson, head of the passenger department, said that he had never known a man who showed such deep affection for his wife as Mr. Kozminski.

Although we did not suspect that he would commit suicide, said Mr. Henderson, "I remember his saying to me last Friday that, if anything happened to him, his body should be taken to Chicago and placed beside that of his wife in Rose Hill Cemetery."

During most of his stay in New York, Mr. Kozminski had lived in the Plaza. In the summer of 1920 he went abroad with his wife and traveled through France, Algeria and Morocco, where Mrs. Kozminski, already in poor health, contracted the illness which ended her life. He is survived by a son, Charles Kozminski, 24 years old, of Chicago, and a daughter, Miss Sybil Kozminski, 20 years old, who lived with him in the Plaza.

URGES NAVY BE KEPT UP, WITH EYE ON JAPAN

Ex-Archbishop General of Philippines Also Advocates Sales Tax Before Shoe Men.

A warning that the United States must keep up its navy with a view to possible conflict with Japan was given by Leobea H. Whitley, ex-Archbishop General in the Philippines and ex-judge of the United States Court in China, in an address yesterday before the Retail Shoe Dealers Association. Speaking as a representative of the Tax League of America, in advocacy of a general sales tax, he said:

"A reorganization of our tax system is essential in the present economic crisis, which is as great as our military one in the war. Besides our debts of nearly thirty billion dollars, we must keep up our navy. Have you read the Japanese Government's latest notes to Washington, and do you know her plans for a great navy? Japan means to dominate the Orient, and to establish her hegemony in the East, and we must be ready to deal with her on the West."

Judge Whitley criticized arguments against the sales tax advanced a few days ago by Representative Mondell in Washington, contending that it could be efficiently administered, and had proved its success in the Philippines, Mexico and Canada.

"After many turnovers," he said, "the tax to the ultimate consumer will be from 2.50 to 3.25 per cent., as shown by expert computations. In the case of shoes after eleven turnovers it would be only 2.50 per cent.; on a suit of clothes, after eight turnovers, it would amount to 2.50 per cent. At present, with the excess profit levies added to the price of his purchases, the ordinary shopper in a large department store pays as high as 22.5 per cent. The present tax system discourages enterprises and is destructive of the country's business. There must be a change."

$60,000 FOR PHONE INQUIRY.

Board of Aldermen Authorizes Special Bond Issue.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday authorized the issuing of $60,000 in special revenue bonds to pay for the proposed telephone investigation. Alderman Bruce M. Falconer wanted Assistant Corporation Counsel M. E. Fertig to explain why the engineers now in the employ of the city could not conduct the examination and was told that the city was confronted with a monopoly which had the best experts in the world at its command, while the men who were to be retained to represent the city were the best that could be found outside of the company's experts.

Mr. Fertig declared that while the rate to be paid the experts, $100 a day, seemed excessive, the amount asked for was small compared to what other cities had to pay for the same work. He declared that the experts would first make an exhaustive examination of the property of the New York Telephone Company, which would take from four to six months.

WANT J. V. V. OLCOTT TO RUN

Friends Urge Him as Republican Aspirant for Mayoralty.

Friends of J. Van Vechten Olcott put him forward yesterday as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor in the Fall. It is said he has the endorsement of most of the members of the National Republican Club, of which at one time he was President.

It is said Mr. Olcott is a relative candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor in the Fall. It is not known whether he would be willing to run on a Fusion ticket against Tammany. Mr. Olcott is a member of the Union League Club and has been active in Republican politics in the city for years.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woolcott

Mr. Hampden's Season.

Another "Macbeth" one as orthodox as Arthur Hopkins's was heretofore, was added to the season's record last evening when Walter Hampden began his Broadway Theatre engagement.

As a Shakespearean actor, Walter Hampden has been showered with praise and outside our country has been selected as a following as promises in time to make returns of a material and clinking kind. His ambition is to create a position in the theatre of one of such integrity and his courage so fine, that it would be pleasant to see him in the cheering which has marked his progress along the road.

An Era of Conservatism

We have passed through a period of inflation and extravagance and are entering an era of conservatism. People are turning to sound investment securities because they recognize that with the fall in commodity prices the income from fixed interest-bearing securities increases in buying power and that it will probably be many years before money will again have such a high purchasing power as it has today.

Our circular "Conservative Investments" mentions a number of attractive issues yielding from

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Call Money Easier—Prices on Stock Exchange Again Move
Irregularly.

Money on call declined again in the stock exchange yesterday to 8 per cent., falling through the 7 per cent. rate for the first time since April 8. This recurrent downward tendency has such importance as always belongs to that branch of the money market as reflecting a general trend, but at present it has no far out of touch with the ordinary criteria of visible supply and demand that its narrow fluctuations have ceased to exert any influence of their own.

The lower rate had no effect on the stock market, which again moved with absolute uncertainty and with individual advances and declines which had no relation whatever to one another. It was a market in which even the professional speculator appeared unable to find reasons for a serious initiative in either direction.

Railway shares were practically motionless; possibly the chances of the Labor Board decision offset such highly unfavorable considerations as the increase of 11,000 mile cars last week, making 220,000 increase since the war began. The total number of side-tracked cars now exceeds considerably the 418,000 maximum in the reaction of 1908, when total tonnage moved decreased 13 per cent. from the year before. In the water hearing at Chicago the spokesman of the union was heard yesterday in opposition to reduction; but he appeared to make no attempt at meeting the argument based on the fall in cost of living since last July. This may come later in the ten-day hearing; for the case against reduction must be based on the fact that the cost of living is higher than it was at the time of the hearing, and that the cost of living is higher than it was at the time of the hearing, and that the cost of living is higher than it was at the time of the hearing.

Boers Mining 1/4 higher at 11 1/2.

PARIS, April 19.—Prices were firmer on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 55 centimes higher at 57 francs 35 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan unchanged at 83 francs 95 centimes.

Exchange on London 84 times 100 francs; American dollars were quoted at 13 francs 74 centimes, against 13 francs 65 centimes yesterday.

Concrete case of this sort continues or modification of the wage scale of last summer, avowedly established then on the basis of living costs, will presumably be decided, not on insinuations of motive, but on the facts of the present situation. What the spokesman for the management must prove is the actual cost of decrease in living costs, and that is not altogether easy.

Yesterday's United States Labor positive testimony for March gave decline in wholesale prices since July and to the fact that, whereas that month's average was 118 per cent. above 1913, the present average is only 82 per cent. above the pre-war year, but a legitimate matter of debate in the extent to which this change has been reflected in retail prices, and the decision may rest on the evidence in that direction.

Wheat fell to another new low price for the period; contracts for July delivery reaching $1.02 per bushel, the lowest since July 1, 1918, and less than was quoted in this month of 1909 or 1910. Exchange on Europe was generally lower, but sterling hardly moved and rates on Berlin closed slightly higher, despite the deduction from the transfer of the Reichbank's gold to territory occupied by the Allies. The March foreign trade figures came in for much discussion as to their bearing on the exchange market situation. It last month's surplus of gold imports over exports is deducted from the surplus of merchandise exports, the month's net balance in our favor on foreign trade account works out only $24,700,000.

In March of 1920 that balance was greatly exceeded not only by the much larger merchandise export surplus, but by our large gold exports. It amounted, on that basis of calculation, to $325,000,000. Reduction of nearly $300,000,000 in one month's accruing trade credits could scarcely fail to cut some figure in foreign exchange rates, yet, except for France, Italy and Belgium, exchange on practically all foreign markets stands now below the rate of a year ago—that comparison holding good even as to London, despite the recent recovery in sterling.

MONEY.

TUESDAY, APRIL 19, 1921.

Call money on the Stock Exchange got down to 6 per cent., after opening and renewing at 7 per cent. This is the lowest rate for demand rates since April 8. In the unofficial market, money was available at 6 per cent., and then again at 5 per cent. when the rate on the board came off. No change was reported in time money market, fair amounts of fixed period money being offered at 7 per cent. for both call and time, with the borrowers bidding 6 1/2 and 6 per cent. for mixed and all industrial respectively. Renewals are being arranged at 7 per cent. Acceptances and choice name commercial paper rates were reported unchanged.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

French Rates Decline in Forenoon but Rally Later—Starling Closes Unchanged.

The foreign exchange market again was fairly active, but so far as sterling was concerned, rates changed very little, closing as a matter of fact, closing at precisely the figure it had closed at the day before. French francs, on the other hand, broke sharply in the forenoon, going down to 118, but they recovered nearly 5 points in the later trading. Italian exchange also was rather heavy at midday, but came back part ways in the afternoon. German marks were active but held to the usual narrow range. Chinese were slightly higher, but Argentine exchange broke to a new low record for the year.

General Counsel.

Colonel Samuel P. Colt, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Rubber Company, said at the annual meeting of stockholders held at New Brunswick, N. J., yesterday, that when the country was at the height of its prosperity the general feeling was that properly accompanied by high prices would continue for two or three years to come. "They did not, and the marked decline in prices was met from reserves which your directors set aside to meet such a condition."

"If I feel that the company has every cause to be doubly proud of its record during the past twelve months," he said, "notwithstanding the stringency of money, and the tremendous fall in prices—as for instance crude rubber, which has receded from 55c to below 30c a pound, and cotton fabric cut in two—we have been able to meet all our obligations from reserves previously provided and have further, out of the surplus earnings for the year 1920 set up an other reserve of $6,000,000 to meet any contingency that may hereafter arise, not that we expect it will be needed, but in order to be on the safe side."

Now it is always somewhat risky to predict as to the future, but I must say this: I do feel satisfied that we have seen the worst of the depression and that from now on business is going to be on the mend—our business in the mend—in its various departments today. The tire trade, which during the blue days it was predicted would never return, has almost reached normal, and I still believe and I predict that the number of tires used in the year 1921 will be greater than in 1920 or 1922, or in any previous year in the history of the world, and our company is going to get its fair share of the tire business, and, therefore, my message to you today is one of encouragement and confidence in the future."

One of the Directors was re-elected at the annual meeting, and the Hon. John W. Davis, recently Ambassador to Great Britain, was added to the board.

Mr. Davis, who is to join the law firm of Stetson, Jennings & Russell, of which Francis Lynde Stetson, recently deceased, was the head, has been invited to become Mr. Stetson's successor as general counsel of the United States Rubber Company.

GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

We call attention to a letter from E. W. Marland, Esq., President of the Corporation, which he has briefly summarized as follows:

BUSINESS: The Marland Oil Company owns substantially all of the Capital Stocks of Marland Refining Company and Kay County Gas Company, both incorporated in Oklahoma, and through the latter company, a large majority of the Capital Stock of the Marland Oil Company of Mexico. The operating companies in Oklahoma constitute a complete unit in the oil industry, producing, transporting, refining and marketing petroleum and its products and also producing, transporting and marketing natural gas.

PROPERTY: The Marland Refining Company owns in whole or in part 105,174 acres of active and undeveloped oil leases, chiefly in Oklahoma. It owns a complete refinery having a daily capacity of 6,000 barrels of oil. The Kay County Gas Company owns 231 miles of oil pipe lines serving the Marland refinery and also owns 345,937 acres of gas leases. The Companies' properties yielded 2,280,000 barrels in 1920 of which their net interest, after deducting royalties and partnership interests, was in excess of 1,360,000 barrels.

ASSETS: Based upon a recent independent appraisal, combined net assets are in excess of $51,000,000. Consolidated Balance Sheet as at December 31, 1920, adjusted to give effect to the present financing, shows net current assets of $5,016,668 which must be maintained at not less than $4,000,000 during the life of these bonds.

EARNINGS: Net earnings of the Company and its subsidiaries for the year ended December 31, 1920, available for interest charges and reserves, and after provision for Federal Taxes amounted to $5,524,157.78. Upon the same basis, earnings for the three years ended December 31, 1920, amounted to $9,913,338.33 or an average of $3,304,446.11 a year.

SINKING FUND: A quarterly Sinking Fund of $100,000 (first payment October 1, 1921), should retire practically all bonds before maturity.

PARTICIPATING PRIVILEGE: In addition to the interest of 8% per annum, Series "A" Bonds will receive $10 per $1,000 bond for each dollar per share per annum declared in dividends upon the Capital Stock of the Marland Oil Company, up to $4 a share so declared.

SUBSCRIPTION RIGHTS: Each Series "A" Bond will carry a detachable warrant entitling the holder thereof to subscribe on or before April 1, 1931, to 25 shares of stock of Marland Oil Company at $40 per share.

All legal details concerning the validity of these bonds will be passed upon by Messrs. Cottingham, Hayes, Green & McInnis, Attorneys for the Company, and by Messrs. Crocker, Johnson & Shores, Attorneys for the Bankers. The accounts of the Company have been audited by W. O. Ligon Company, Certified Public Accountants, for the Company, and have been checked by Messrs. Arthur Young & Company, Certified Public Accountants, for the Bankers. If, as and when issued and received by us, temporary bonds, exchangeable for definitive bonds, will be delivered.
